

What would you do if you could power the world without one drop of gas?

At Aker Wade, we've made it our business to find out.

We don't make energy; we make it work for you – converting electricity into solutions that power your vehicle, your business and the world. And with increasing demand for efficiency, we're driving innovation to discover better ways to provide the energy you need in products and services that are kind to the earth and bottom lines alike.

Aker Wade: Power conversion is our business. Powering the future is our passion.™